The case moved through existing institutions

This September 2026 retrospective covers the handover completed November 3, 2025. Its current Pinakes/doctrine crosswalk was unavailable in that earlier record, so the retrospective itself is not eligible for a pre-September 2026 participant snapshot. The table separately preserves the historical in-world event dates.

Vilander's supervisor received the October 2023 anomaly and asked him to reduce it to a bounded question. The supervisor did not dismiss it or seize the opportunity as a personal project. Contact supported specified collection; Judgment challenged interpretations; Orientation made the consequential question visible; management and the existing board capital process owned funding. No new “uranium intelligence office,” investment committee bureaucracy or AI decision authority is added.

Date	Institutional event	Contemporary decision and retained dissent
2023-10-06	Vilander briefs his Judgment supervisor	Continue a bounded inquiry; missing capacity evidence prevents an acquisition recommendation
2023-10-23	Judgment Table challenges the first chain map	Trace apparent corroboration to original sources; explicitly distinguish pounds, conversion access and licensed capability
2023-11-02	Orientation circulates an enterprise question	Why do resource models assume downstream access? No asset recommendation is conveyed
2024-02-23	Cedar Junction closure enters the institutional learning record	Retain Vilander's initial enthusiasm and the evidence that defeated it
2024-06-21	Juniper Mesa closure and Mari's project graveyard are discussed together	Physical and commercial specialists enter earlier; low entry price is insufficient
2024-10-11	Judgment handover joins three false starts to the Red Wash kill-study	Respect expertise without outsourcing judgment; Mari's operational objections travel with the opportunity
2024-11-15	Daniel sponsors a bounded company-development proposal	Capital decision remains with management/board; no automatic acquisition authority
2025-01-13	Pale Sun founding record enters company files	Separate legal company, limited mandate and separate mine-operating authority

Date	Institutional event	Contemporary decision and retained dissent
2025-07-18	Red Wash closing enters the corporate record	Martin owns transaction execution; Mari owns mine operations; Evan owns platform development
2025-11-03	Appointment and formal handover close Vilander's original J2 role	A new Judgment owner can challenge Pale Sun; Vilander cannot be independent assessor of his own company

Provenance reconstruction

Alexandria connected records by source, claim, event and version. A commercial summary and a technical interview could concern the same transformation step without supporting the same conclusion. The system retained source dates, who supplied the record, the analyst's interpretation and the human who owned the decision. It exposed where a polished summary depended on the same original interview as two supposedly independent reports.

This package binds actual authored evidence files through the participant build manifest; it does not invent hashes for historical originals that do not exist. The named JO-U and false-start artifact IDs are stable references to the reconstructed excerpts in this corpus. Their historical availability dates are synthetic case facts. Creation timestamps disclose when the reconstruction was authored.

For the 2026 reader, the record maps into the existing nine-door Pinakes catalog: underlying material to Collection; Problem Books and dissent to Judgment; issued traffic to Semaphore; concise changes in belief to EIB Archive; funding analysis to Finance; accepted understanding to Canon; Pale Sun company records to Business Lines; case teaching material to Education. JAG Knowledge is used only when a real case deployment record exists. This is a later catalog mapping, not evidence that all present portal software existed in 2023.

Orientation owned the wording and confidence of the institutional brief. Vilander owned his judgment and retained serious dissent. Mari owned technical operating conclusions. Daniel and the board owned capital decisions. Alexandria did not decide to buy uranium. No generated suggestion was automatically promoted to an institutional conclusion.

Handover and continuing challenge

At the November 3 appointment, Vilander delivered the live Problem Book, contrary evidence, remaining questions and sensitive-source boundaries to the receiving Judgment function in a conversation with read-back. Becoming President did not extinguish J2's right to ask uncomfortable questions. Nor did J2 acquire authority to operate the mine.

The historical champion case is the institution's ability to let a credible but initially ordinary officer follow a consequential thread, kill attractive ideas and eventually build a company. Its lesson depends on preserving the failures. Sources: Judgment profession, Pinakes, human authorship.
